

BIORNAMETICS

Architecture Defined By Natural Patterns explores a new methodology to interconnect scientific evidence with creative design in the field of architecture.

WORKSHOP I

1st and 2nd of June 2010

Universität für Angewandte Kunst, seminar room DG

Agenda Tuesday June 1st

10.00 Barbara Imhof, Project Introduction,
LIQUIFER Systems Group, Vienna

10.30 Petra Gruber, Biomimetics in Architecture, transarch, Vienna

11.30 George Jerominidis, Biomimetics: materials and strategies,
Centre for Biomimetics, Reading, UK, Architectural Association, London

12.30 Ille Gebeshuber, Bionanotechnology,
Institute of Microengineering and Nanoelectronics, University Kebangsaan
Malaysia, TU-Wien

13.30 Break

14.30 Group working session - development of concept ideas - Part 1

Agenda Wednesday June 2nd

10.00 Table discussions with students

10.30 Group working session - development of concept ideas - Part 2

15.00 - 17.00 Presentation of outcome, discussion and next steps

- sign up for workshop
- sign up to become a research assistant
- sign up for BIORNAMETICS seminar in winter term

sign up at info@biornametics.com

www.biornametics.com

! restricted number of places for workshop and seminar !

BIORNAMETICS